As a citizen of Canada I have grave concerns about the future health and welfare of our great country. Specifically, our environment is OBVIOUSLY facing grave danger in the not distant future from rampant development of the TAR sands (they maybe produce oil, but they consist of TAR SANDS) which entail horrific tailing ponds and huge use of the areas water supply.

To put in a pipeline for the purpose of moving the product of the tar sands to the west coast is foolish (listen to the First Nations people it is their life and land that is being endangered).

To use a pipeline to move the bitumen to the west coast in order to ship it in huge tankers across the ocean is nothing less than criminal stupidity. We already IMPORT fuel into Canada. (A38996)

WE NEED TO BUILD A CANADIAN OIL REFINERY IN ALBERTA to make Canada more fuel independent and to avoid the massive movement of fossil fuel materials BACK AND FORTH.

This isn't rocket science - just common sense. Many of the arguments for the pipe line are thinly veiled attempts to line the pockets of large companies who (like our current Federal government) do not have any concern for the future of Canada - it is NOT all about the economy. It is about the future of our countries existence.

There are too many empty and deceitful words and not enough common sense thinking.

PLEASE - NO MORE PIPE LINES. We already have way too many of them.
