

From: Vaughn McMillan <email address removed>

Sent: June 21, 2016 2:20 AM

To: EGESA / UGHGA (EC)

Subject: Please disregard all the hype about 'upstream G.H.G. emissions', and proceed at flank speed with the Trans Mountain Pipeline expansion.

To Whom It May Concern,

Anyone with a brain, and eyes that work, can tell at a glance that all this nonsense about 'man-made global warming', and 'carbon footprint', and any other enviro wacko terms, are simply contrivances used to strike enough fear in the hearts of silly men, to convince them like Big Al the kiddies' pal wants them to, to believe at the start of the informative video I'm embedding a link to, that we must do 'something', to stop it. Invariably, that means a conspiracy to further enslave this and other Western industrialized countries' tax payers to an even BIGGER confiscatory tax hike.

Well I don't buy it for a second, and the only reason YOU do, is on accounta because your level of beurocrapsy wouldn't even EXIST if it wasn't prepared to fulfil it's 'watermelon manifesto'. Yes, watermelon - green on the outside, and all pinko in the middle! While your recently trumped up office sits around wringing it's hands, looking for new ways to hobble and handcuff the nation's energy industry, the inertia it's causing in that industry may render the country a 3rd world nation status, due to being impossible to reboot from it's slumber.

For example, in spite of all the hoopla Ofloppa's 'deal' with China on their g.h.g emissions is concerned, it's just that, given that the Chinese don't even have to start to commence to think about beginning to cut back on their emissions 'til 2036! A twenty year handicap on us vs. the West! And this is called some kind of a DEAL!?! Sorta kinda like his go-ahead-and-get-your-nukes deal with Iran, while he thaws out it's frozen U.S. assets, and lifts the sanctions against their oil sales to the world, culminating in an effective $180 BILLION pat on the bum to go ahead and get/buy your bomb that they promise to use on Israel and yes, even 'the great Satan' itself!

I'm so glad you brought up Iran and oil sales, 'cuz it reminds me that as of April of this year (2016) they were pumping out 3.5 million barrels a day in crude oil to dump on the already glutted world market. I don't think I need to remind you that THEY don't have a parallel beurocrapsy like yours, that sits around wringing it's hands out about 'upstream g.h.g. emissions', but rather may I suggest, a boiler room full of phones calling up prospective countries to sell said oil to, with an eye on continuous expansion at all costs. They've been squashed into the dirt financially speaking, courtesy of those aforementioned sanctions, for the past 30 years! Do you really think they could give a rat's petootie about what limits OPEC and other countries want them to cap production at?! Seriously? Really? It's gonna be full tilt boogie straight ahead, just like it should be for US! While the world's still using it for EVERYTHING! While there's still a market for it!

Ask yourself a simple question. How reasonable, 'fair', or level a playing field is it, when this country's own prime minister would put hobbles and handcuffs on our own energy production, while it still allows Saudi and Iranian oil to be shipped into this country with absolutely ZERO conditions on it?! It's straight up high treason is what it is, in any language!

Furthermore, do you think for a second, that if Iran was currently hosting Petronas' bid to invest ANOTHER $36 Billion, on top of the $12 Billion they've ALREADY INVESTED in an LNG port, that there could possibly be any opposition to it?! Well at least nobody's trying to kid you on that one. Now how 'bout returning the favour, and rubber stamp the approval, before Petronas pulls out, and dynamites what it's left behind, along with any future Libtard or ANY political party's wish to be considered anything other than a tin-pot, dictatorial, frozen-banana 3rd world, anti-business, anti-job, anti-anti-I-over backwater state?

O.K. I'll shut up now and let you watch the movie. But after that, please rubber stamp the Trans-Mountain Pipeline extension.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GJYpcJxc5t0>

Best regards,
Vaughn McMillan
<email address removed>
Calgary, Alberta